Youth Says He Learned Thievery in East Side Hotel.

Chief Magistrate Meadoo had before him yesterday James Johnson 19 years off, who is accused of opening a safe without the use of dynamite or tools in the offices of Thomas Dunworth, steamship agent, at 127 West Thirty-seventh street, on the might of February 9. The police say 429 in English money and 22,049 in travellers' checks was taken.

Johnson pleaded not guilty and waived examination. The court thought it exceptional that so young a man could make such a judicious rove in his case and was about to ask him when Johnson said he had a story to tell of crooks win frequent a hotel on the East Side and who taught him the tricks of lock manipulation and how to blow safes.
